Progress and Promise

The 2017-18 school year is well underway and there has been significant progress in our schools. Every building has new technology or a new classroom. Details are covered in this issue.

We are especially energized about the planned opening of the Heelan Academic Classroom Addition on January 3. We celebrate this momentous milestone with joy and gratitude. Its completion speaks to the vision, planning and generosity of many dedicated alumni, parents and other supporters of Heelan High School.

In this issue you will enjoy our popular section devoted to graduates as well as the special feature about married graduates. It is an honor for Heelan to educate generations of families and to help create bonds with couples that last a lifetime.

I will be retiring in December after 44 rewarding years in Catholic education. Thank you for your prayers and support offered in the past four years that have made our school progress possible. I have treasured my time in leading Bishop Heelan Catholic Schools as President and have been blessed to work with wonderful staff members and dedicated educators. God bless all.

Jake Delfs '01 is Heelan's new Dean of Students.

Heelan Grad Named Dean

The start of a new school year brings the start of new responsibilities for Jake Delfs '01, Heelan's new dean of students.

Delfs, a former vocal music teacher, now oversees academic enrichment, student discipline and attendance and serves as an assistant principal.

After earning degrees in music and education at Briar Cliff University, Delfs taught at Heelan for six years, moved to teach music in Illinois for two years and returned to Heelan in 2014. He is working on his master's degree in educational administration.

Delfs plans to continue directing Momantum, Heelan's award-winning all male choir. He replaces Jay Wright. See sidebar.

John Flanery Returns to Heelan

John Flanery, a former teacher who expanded Heelan's music program, has returned to teaching music at Heelan and work in fundraising for administration.

Flanery taught at Heelan from 1996 to 2004 and left to earn master's and doctorate degrees from the University of Kentucky. He spent nine years as associate choral director at the University of Southern Mississippi and most recently as director of choral activities at New Mexico State University.

He served as president of the Mississippi chapter of the American Choral Directors Association (ACDA) 2011-2014 and was president-elect for New Mexico ACDA.

During his years at Heelan Flanery, a Briar Cliff graduate, conducted concert choirs, madrigal dinners, show choirs, jazz choirs and supported the arts in Sioux City. He has been a clinician throughout the U.S. and was as an all-state conductor in Alabama and Kentucky.

Flannery and his wife, Juliane (Levich) '97, have five children.

Students show off new Heelan Marching Band uniforms.

Gilchrist Grant Funds New Marching Band Uniforms

The Heelan Marching Band will literally sparkle under the lights this fall when it unveils new choreography and new uniforms with metallic gold accents.

A $15,000 grant from the Gilchrist Foundation, Christmas fundraisers and a gift from former Heelan band musician Mike Urbanos helped fund the new look.

The band's dark, 16-year-old uniforms have been replaced by bright blue jackets and pants with black and white vertical lines that run from the pants to the jacket and through the hat to give musicians extra vertical height on the field. Black gloves with gauntlets and a white plume hat top it off.

Heelan Band Director James Kunz believes the mix of traditional and contemporary elements should keep the design sharp for years. A seven-member Heelan committee selected the new look.

"We are grateful for the generous Gilchrist Foundation grant and other gifts," says Kunz. "Our students look forward to performing in new uniforms on the artificial turf of Memorial Field."

Heelan musicians march while playing flutes; clarinets; alto, tenor and baritone saxophones; trumpets; mellophones; trombones; baritones; sousaphones; battery percussion and pit percussion (cymbals, a marimba, and bells.)

Flags and choreography now add new color and energy. The Marching Crusaders perform at home games and compete in several events each year.

Grant Funds Equipment for Video Production Class

Heelan students will be able to produce higher quality work in their video production class this year, thanks to a $10,000 grant from the Gilchrist Foundation.

The grant will fund new cameras, better lighting equipment, an audio booth, new tripods and more. Heelan students produce videos for school assemblies, fine arts activities, competitions, you tube content and classroom projects.

"Learning to plan, write and record video projects nurtures student creativity in a special way," says JoAnn Clemens, video production teacher and BHCS technology coordinator.

New Academic Classrooms Open in January

Heelan will open the doors of its new Academic Classroom Addition Jan. 3, the start of Heelan’s second semester.

Construction workers have built the hallway connector that links the 55,000 square foot classroom addition with the Fine Arts Building. As the Crusader Connection was coming off the press, drywall was up on the main floor and window frames were installed. Painting, ceilings, flooring and student locker installation are scheduled for completion by November.

Brendan Burchard, Heelan’s longest serving teacher who will start his 49th year in August, is both excited and sad.

“It is bittersweet to leave classrooms that have educated over 10,000 students for 67 years, but our Catholic education mission continues,” he says. “Everyone is energized about new space, air-conditioned classrooms and a more connected lay-out that will benefit both teachers and students. Our students will make new memories in our new building.”

A Big Move

As construction continues, plans are underway for professionals to move desks, science lab equipment, library books, kitchen appliances and other large items to the new building in December. Teachers preparing to move will be assisted by student volunteers who will earn silver cord hours for their service. Down the road Heelan’s old lockers will be saved for special sales.

CYO and The Pit Stay Open

The CYO, which opened about 10 years after the high school, will continue to be used for wrestling, fitness center workouts, camp events, gym practices and Sacred Heart’s preschool.

The current high school gym, aka The Pit, also will remain open for physical education and athletic events. A planned 1,600 seat gymnasium will be constructed in front of the new classroom building.

“We continue to meet with friends and alumni for major gifts to construct the gymnasium,” says Tom Betz, advancement director. “We are blessed with donors who value Catholic school education in today’s world.”

Heelan parent and former wrestler Chris McGowan ‘85 speaks at a ceremony to celebrate the new wrestling room.

Former wrestling coaches, student wrestlers and supporters gathered to celebrate the new space last November. “It has truly been a team effort,” said Heelan Principal Chris Bork. “We are grateful to the Heelan community for the financial support, volunteerism and hard work that have led to our program improvements.”

Heelan’s Chaplain, Father Shane Deman, blessed the new room and prayed for the safety and well-being of coaches and student athletes. Heelan wrestlers won more matches and finished a winning season. Heelan came in second in the conference and sent athletes to state.

Wrestlers Score with New Place

Heelan’s wrestling program scored a big win this past year by moving its wrestling room into new space in the lower level of the Heelan CYO.

Wrestlers were relocated into a more spacious practice area free of pillars, with new state-of-the-art wrestling mats and wall mats. They sit atop a new sub-floor, a hallmark of the top wrestling facilities in the nation, designed to reduce impact-related injuries, including concussions and injuries to the joints.

A layer of mold and mildew resistant carpet was added between the sub-floor and wrestling mats to further enhance the flooring. The room also received new lighting, electrical upgrades and fresh paint.

LaFavor Joins System

Jeff LaFavor has joined Bishop Heelan Catholic Schools as director of enrollment management in the administrative offices. He will focus on enrollment and admissions and supporting school principals in welcoming families into the school system.

LaFavor has spent 16 years in education. He worked at Briar Cliff University in admissions and as a former vice president for advancement. He also has worked for education software companies in the areas of enrollment and marketing. He is a graduate of Briar Cliff University.

Thirty Heelan boys abstained from shaving their facial hair last November to raise funds for Make a Wish Iowa.

Stubble for a Cause helps Miracle Makers Raise Funds

When Heelan Miracle Maker students presented a whopping $8,600 check to Make a Wish Iowa in April it included donations from a unique new effort -- "No Shave November."

The successful campaign attracted nearly 30 boys to pay $20 to abstain from shaving for the month and persuade other students to vote with donations for their favorite fellow student's facial hair. Heelan students also raised funds with jeans days, the snowball dance, Mr. and Mrs. Heelan High, restaurant sales and more.

Heelan received a special "Children Helping Children" award from Make a Wish at an all school assembly where students heard from Katelynn, a Make-a-Wish child with a heart defect, and her mother.

Adrian Aleman, Jack Eastman and Miles Patton join resident Mary Mullin, after a game of Wii bowling at Holy Spirit Retirement Home.

Students Run League at Nursing Homes

Heelan Seniors Adrian Aleman, Jack Eastman and Miles Patton always knew they could learn from their elders and giving back.

In their jobs as dietary aides at Westwood Specialty Care nursing home they enjoy interacting with the residents. Last fall, they volunteered at Casa De Paz Health Care Center playing the Wii with seniors there. They noticed how the residents lit up when they visited. When Miles' mom, Roxanne Patton, a dietician who serves nursing homes, shared the benefits of the Wii for fine motor skills and social interaction, the boys hatched a plan.

The Heelan seniors created individualized Avatars, or "Mii's," for each participating resident and then made a schedule to visit four different nursing homes each week, creating a Summer League. They offer different style tournaments to encourage residents to be engaged.

"All residents are free to come learn how to play or watch," says Adrian. "We just hope to meet them and give them a fun activity."

"Bowling is not the main objective," adds Eastman. "We do this to talk to the residents and build personal relationships with them. We like connecting with a different generation and giving back to others."

Miles notes the program offers other benefits.

"The technology of the Wii gives the residents a new virtual skill, helping them connect with their grandchildren."

Students Honored by Rotary

Lexi Ricke, graduated senior, is the Sioux City Rotary Club Student of the Year. In her presentation to the club she shared she would like to work with veterans.

Lexi, ranked sixth in her class, was honored as a "Student of the Year in Technology and Science" by Heelan faculty. She was captain of Heelan's softball team, served as president of the Rotary Interact, played volleyball for three years and was a member of the Mayor's Youth Commission and Heelan's Miracle Makers Club. She is attending Benedictine College.

Daniel Alvarado, Heelan Rotary Student of the Month in December, is now at the U.S. Military Academy at West Point, N.Y.

A student debater, Daniel was ranked third in his class and was named student of the year in World Language and Social Studies. He ran varsity cross country and track, was involved in the computer coding club and student council.

From Heelan Classroom to Opening for Bon Jovi

By Megan Glover '14, College Intern

To say Max Miller ('17) and Heelan senior Jack Osborn '18 are busy would be an understatement.

The young men are two of five members of the up-and-coming band 35th and Taylor, based out of Sioux City. Miller is a drummer for the band and Osborn plays the bass and does some vocals.

The group has spent quite a bit of their high school years on the road and performing around the Midwest, including opening for Bon Jovi in Chicago and at Sioux City's annual music festival Saturday in the Park.

Miller says performing for Bon Jovi's crowd in spring was "a dream come true."

"We got treated super well, met a lot of amazing people, and the crowd received our music and performance very well."

Playing on the main stage at Sioux City festival Saturday in the Park in July was another good experience."

"When we went to Saturday in the Park when we were younger, we always pictured ourselves up there playing in front of all those people," said Miller. "Then when you're actually up there and you see what it looks like from that perspective, it's pretty sweet."

During the summer, the band

performed nearly every weekend and practiced during the week at a warehouse on a farm outside of town.

"We used to be in a basement for the whole family and neighborhood to hear," said Miller. "This is a better set up."

The two performed during their summer break, but Jack still has one year left at Heelan. They say juggling music with their studies can be stressful and they have had to rely on Heelan teachers to be understanding about their situation.

Miller and Osborn both said that being students at Heelan has encouraged them to be themselves and strive to achieve their goals.

Their music experience has taught them important life skills.

"Except for my first one, I have bought all my own guitars," says Osborn. "Money management is definitely something I have had to pay attention to."

Miller added that communicating well with adults and strangers is another skill he has developed.

"We've been talking to people about music since we were 12 and 13 years old," he said. "And we have made a ton of friends around the country doing what we love."

Catholic School Teacher Leads Vikings for a Day

Jacquie Yaneff, middle, is joined by the Today's Show's Megyn Kelly and Al Roker, #8 Sam Bradford and #82 Kyle Rudolph.

When Holy Cross Blessed Sacrament School teacher Jacquie Yaneff saw that NBC's Today Show was inviting viewers to send in their wish of something they always wanted to do, she sent in her entry, "I'm a 50-year-old female, a junior high teacher and athletic director of my school, and I'm a die-hard Minnesota Vikings fan. I want to lead the Vikings for a day and take information and motivation back to my students."

She won her wish. On Aug 2 Yaneff met Al Roker and Megyn Kelly at the Vikings training camp in Mankato Minn., where she served as general manager of the day as part of the Today's Show's "Summer of Yes" series.

"It was just an unbelievable experience," the junior high literature teacher said. "People were so friendly and welcoming."

She sat in coaches meetings, hung out with players, looked at depth charts, visited with athletic trainers, and watched the nutritionist monitor the NFL athletes' lunches.

"It was far beyond anything I could have imagined," said Yaneff, a Viking fan since childhood.

Players shared with her the importance of being a team player and that critical thinking and problem solving skills promoted in school is the discipline they use playing in NFL games. Yaneff will share the messages with her Catholic school students this year. See the Holy Cross Teacher video at <https://www.today.com/video/schoolteacher-s-surprise>

Fr. Shane Deman, Heelan Chaplain

Nurturing Faith at Heelan

Father Shane Deman, Chaplain

As Chaplain of Bishop Heelan High School and as a 1999 alumnus, I am pleased to highlight how our campus ministry activities nurture the spiritual needs of our students, teachers and parents. I am honored to work with the Bishop Heelan community to offer the sacraments and other faith-building activities.

Last September, mini retreats for Bishop Heelan moms and dads offered personal prayer time and reflections on how parents can grow in masculine and feminine holiness. We also discussed how families can practice their faith at home throughout the school year.

Later in the fall, the senior class participated in "Heelan Helpers," a program that sent them to their respective Catholic grade school for the day to assist in classrooms as teacher aids. The day lets elementary students enjoy fun interactions with Heelan seniors.

The next day, the senior retreat focused on the theme of authentic love, examining the ways they will grow in love with others and especially with Jesus Christ. The guest speaker was Brea Roper, a campus minister at the St. John Paul II Newman Center in Omaha.

During Catholic Schools Week in February, Fr. Joseph Freedy of the Diocese of Pittsburgh served as the guest speaker for a combined sophomore-junior class retreat. This energetic priest once played Division I football as a quarterback for the University of Buffalo. Having a conversion experience of faith in college, and discovering his vocation as a priest, Fr. Freedy inspired the Heelan students with his humor and compelling witness talks.

Students also spent time in front of the Blessed Sacrament in Adoration at the Cathedral of the Epiphany.

This past spring, the freshmen class enjoyed a class retreat on the dignity of the human person and respect of the human body with guest speaker Elizabeth Hansen, director of youth and young adult ministries at St. Wenceslaus Parish in Omaha. Throughout this day, the freshmen grew in greater class unity through opportunities for prayer, self-reflection, fun activities and team-building events.

This summer more than 70 students attended the high-energy Steubenville Mid-America youth conference in Springfield, Mo. There over 4,000 teens encounter Jesus Christ through dynamic speakers, music, the Sacraments, small group discussions and interactions with other teens. Speakers include priests, Catholic authors and performing artists.

These youth conferences help our students in their own relationship with Christ and examine what vocation He is calling them to pursue.

A summer mission trip to the Dominican Republic offered a special experience to students, under the leadership of Sr. Madeleine Miller, OSB. You can read about this great trip on page 7.

While theology classes help to catechize our students, our campus ministry efforts seek to continually evangelize them and build upon the firm foundation of faith that parents offer their children.

Please continue to pray for our efforts and may all of our students depart Bishop Heelan as more committed disciples of Jesus Christ.

Dominican Republic Mission Trip Inspires Students

By Katie Borkowski, Reprinted Courtesy of The Globe

Fourteen Heelan High students traveled to the Dominican Republic on a mission trip in June and came back changed.

The group volunteered at the Nuestros Pequeños Hermanos (NPH) orphanage in a small village outside of San Pedro de Macoris. Benedictine Sister Madeline Miller, theology teacher at Heelan, and Father Patrick Behm, former Heelan chaplain, were among the chaperones on the trip.

Morgan Richardson, a 2017 Heelan graduate, wanted to not only “spread the word of my faith,” but also help the less fortunate in a third world country.

“Sister Madeline, my senior religion teacher, deeply inspired me, and she was a major motivating factor for me to go on the mission trip,” she said. “I truly saw God through her and in all of her actions. I wanted to spread God’s word as she does.”

Sister Madeleine Miller

Sister Madeline said this trip brought together a group of kids who didn’t know each other well.

“These were kids who wouldn’t necessarily hang out together at Heelan,” said Sister Madeleine. “They were thrown into this experience in a foreign country. They had to rely on each other and see value in Mass, confession, Eucharist and service.”

While in the Dominican Republic, the group stayed at the orphanage.

“Our houses had no air conditioning, the running water was not safe to drink and our houses did not have screens over the windows,” said Richardson. “However, by the end of the trip, I realized these things were minuscule issues. The real issues in the world are much greater.”

Former Heelan Chaplain Fr. Patrick Behm, back, joins students who helped construct an agriculture education building for the orphanage school; from left: Morgan Richardson, Annie Krage, Faith Birdsell, Allyson Fannon, Welton Daniel and Tanner Beaulieu.

Morgan Richardson plays with orphans.

Full Days

While at the orphanage, the group had full days including Mass at 7 a.m., digging a trench around the boy’s side of the campus for a fence, digging a floor for an agricultural building and playing with the children. After the group finished their work, they were free to spend time with the children at the orphanage.

“Free time is where most of us made inseparable bonds with the children,” said Richardson. “One of my favorite activities was making bracelets with the boys and girls.”

In the evening, the group participated in adoration and confession. The volunteers from Catholic Mission

Memorable Moments

For Claire Brobst, the most memorable part was spending time with the kids.

“They have so much joy in their hearts and so much love in their hearts to give,” she said. “We didn’t speak the same language and it was tough to communicate without a translator...but we found ways to communicate.”

Morgan Richardson said the trip definitely strengthened her faith and the way she sees Christ.

“In the Dominican Republic, the only thing many of the people have is faith,” she said. “They are such religious people, even though God hasn’t blessed them with material things.”

Trips gave talks and the students participated in small group discussion.

“They put on really good programming for us every night,” said Claire Brobst, a senior at Heelan this fall. “They talked about the experiences we had throughout the days and how it can relate back to Christ.”

Current and former Heelan teachers gathered with retired long-time Heelan teacher Dee Blatchford at Heelan after praying for her at Mass last April.

Farewell Dee Blatchford

A special Heelan teacher, who taught others about life, lost hers to ALS this summer.

Dee Blatchford, who taught 38 years at Heelan from 1970 to 2008, died in June after a short battle with ALS, a crippling disease also known as Lou Gehrig's disease.

Before her passing she was able to attend a Mass in her honor in the new Heelan chapel and visit with dozens of former and current Heelan teachers and staff members. They gathered to offer the most powerful gift they could – prayer.

Blatchford initially taught math at Heelan for many years, but it was her role in the science department that distinguished her. In 1990 after the school year began, the science department chair, Sr. Ruth, died unexpectedly. Blatchford went to Father Victor Raemaker and volunteered to fill the role.

"She prepared all new lessons plans, science experiments, tests, in an entirely different subject area," says Mindy Oberle. "That was the kind of teacher she was. It was an example of her dedication, selflessness, and love of her profession."

When Blatchford moved to science Oberle stepped into the math position and has taught at Heelan ever since.

"As a teacher, Dee was bold, passionate, and a little eccentric at times," Oberle says. "Let's just say her classes were not for the weak of heart. She was demanding and tough on her students. Many later went into health care and science fields and credit Dee for where they are today."

When word spread about her ALS diagnosis, former students flooded Blatchford with cards and letters. She loved them. Graduates sent pictures, told her what a difference she made, thanked her, and said they would pray for her.

"My favorite teacher ever!!" said Ami Ernst. "She never let anyone give up on themselves, she guided you through with such patience and determination that you couldn't help but believe in yourself. I will forever remember and love her.

Wrote another, "I have great memories of her from the first day in which she asked what was in the aquarium ... to when she made me feverishly dissect deer testicles, she kept it interesting... she made discovering the world fun," said another.

"I was lucky enough to have a lot of great teachers in my life, but Mrs. Blatchford was the best," said Molly McDevitt. "Memorizing wasn't enough for Mrs. Blatchford. She wanted us to learn how to critically think ... I'm getting my PhD in Biochemistry because of that spark for truly learning that she instilled in me all those years ago...and her tests are the still probably the hardest tests I've ever taken."

"As a teacher who loved the gift of discovery," said Fr. Shane Deman at her prayer service "we hope and pray that she is continuing her love of discovery now in the presence of God, hopefully meeting past friends and family members, famous saints and angels, and discovering levels of heavenly creation with a sense of awe and admiration."

Just like she did with her students.

Scholarship Honors Blatchford

An annual scholarship at Heelan High School for a Heelan junior exhibiting high achievement in science will honor Dee Blatchford. This year's award was presented to Bryce Reynolds.

A second scholarship was created for a graduating senior pursuing science studies. Alumni are invited to contribute to the Heelan scholarship fund to honor the long-time science teacher and provide tuition aid to a high-achieving student.

More Learning Technology

Teachers and staff and students at Holy Cross School are reaping the benefits of nearly $80,000 in new technology this school year. A donor matched teachers' reading and literacy project to raise $60,000, and a concert raised $20,000.

The efforts have put 205 chromebooks in the hands of students in grades 3-8. Chromebooks handle internet research, serve as writing tablets, store and email homework assignments in the cloud and are testing tools all in one device. New charging stations and computer carts support mobile device use.

Holy Cross teachers also have new Surface Pros – tablets that allow them to move wirelessly about the classroom while projecting lessons on a screen to better engage students.

Support for Mater Dei

Mater Dei School received $5,000 in classroom grants from the Siouxland Community Foundation and raised funds in a Walk-a-thon to purchase school and classroom items

The funds have supported the purchase of computers for mobile lab for third and fourth graders, Kindle Fires for Nativity students, a timpani drum for its band, reading bins for classrooms, supplies for One School One Book, a projector screen and transitional kindergarten classroom needs and more.

Promoting Collaboration

At Sacred Heart each of the nearly 60 fourth graders has a chromebook and one of their rooms is equipped as a "21st century classroom."

A $15,000 MRHD grant funded the chromebooks and charging stations. A $5,000 Siouxland Community Foundation grant funded interactive projectors, a Surface Pro for the teacher and Node desk-chairs to encourage flexible seating.

The Nodes roll on wheels for students to move into groups to collaborate on class work and projects.

"We're creating a more interactive environment. Employers are looking for collaboration, communication and creativity, and we're nurturing that in our students," says Principal Kate Connealy.

Teacher and Secretary Win Awards

The recent Bishop's Dinner for Catholic Education honored two from the Bishop Heelan Schools.

Pat Boggs, a third grade teacher who has taught at Holy Cross – Blessed Sacrament for 29 years, received a Teacher of Excellence award. "Pat creates a classroom environment that is faith-filled, alive with educational activities and beams with an energetic atmosphere for learning," says Michael Sweeney, principal.

Juanita Garcia, a bilingual secretary at Sacred Heart School for 15 years, received the Good Shepherd Award.

"Juanita is an essential link to our Hispanic families," says Kate Connealy, principal. "She shares information, helps families register and apply for financial assistance, and answers questions every step of the way."

- Career record of 264-83 (.761) in 14 seasons
- 7 State tournament teams (2002, 2007, 2008, 2009, 2010, 2011, 2012)

Tom Betz' success at Heelan and leadership in basketball coaching put him in the Iowa Boys Hall of Fame.

After playing basketball at Heelan, Betz earned his undergraduate degree from Morningside in 1989 where he was a two-time all North Central Conference selection. He was named to the Morningside College Hall of Fame.

After working in sales Betz started a career in education and arrived at Heelan in 1999 and serve as assistant basketball coach under Doug Moody. He took over the head coach spot in 2000.

Betz is one of just six coaches in the history of the sport in Iowa to record three consecutive titles as Bishop Heelan prevailed in 2009, 2010 and 2011. He has served on the Iowa Basketball Coaches Association board of directors since 2001. He earned the Don Logan Service Award in 2014.

Today Betz is director of advancement for Bishop Heelan. He serves on the Boys and Girls Club Board of Directors, Teammates mentoring, Siouxland Sport Commission and the Morningside College Alumni Board. Two children, Annie and Jared, have graduated from Heelan and Ellie is in eighth grade.

Tritz Named to Girl's Hall of Fame

Carli Tritz '10, a standout multi-sport athlete at Heelan, was inducted into the Iowa Girls Basketball Hall of Fame. She was inducted with two others at the Iowa Girls State Basketball Tournament Class 4A championship game in March.

Tritz was a star at Bishop Heelan from 2007-to-2010. She was part of two state champions teams and was twice named all-tournament captain in helping the Crusaders reach four state tournaments and three state title game appearances.

Tritz was Miss Iowa Basketball in 2010, averaging a 22.6 points, 6.1 steals, 3.8 rebounds, 6.6 assists while shooting a state-best 65.9 percent from the field. In addition to her basketball honors, she was an all-state performer in volleyball and soccer.

The daughter of John and Lisa Tritz played collegiately at Creighton and was the Missouri Valley Conference Freshman of the Year in 2011. She was an all-MVP first team selection and conference tournament MVP as a sophomore before injuries forced her to retire from the game before the start of her senior season. She closed her collegiate career with 1,041 points, 183 steals and 311 assists.

Now Tritz has a big role in women's basketball at Creighton. After spending three seasons on the Bluejay bench as a graduate manager and video coordinator she's been promoted to assistant coach of the Creighton Bluejays.

Tritz was honored at the Heelan Auction along with Betz with a lifetime admission to Heelan games.

The standout play of Carli Tritz '10 put her in the Girls Basketball a Hall of Fame this year.

Memorial Field now has artificial turf.

Bishop Heelan's Memorial Field now has artificial turf.

The field marked an exciting and historic milestone when its natural grass field was removed in July and the new field turf was installed in August. The installation was handled by Midwest Field Turf and Lawn of Denison, Iowa which installed a new track at Memorial Field nearly two years ago.

The new field's all-weather synthetic, rubberized surface creates a safer area for athletic activity and will be easier to maintain, according to Jason Pratt, Heelan activities director.

"Field turf offers a great benefit to our students," says Pratt, "Its even playing surface will stay stable through football and soccer seasons and reduce the risk of both injuries to student athletes."

Artificial turf fields stay usable in the wet weather, he adds. Rain will no longer turn grass into a mucky, muddy mess and force soccer game cancellations.

"It becomes a more useful space that benefits hundreds of students," Pratt says.

The field will be appreciated by Heelan football players, junior high football players, boys and girls soccer teams, marching band members, dance squad members, summer camp athletes and more.

The artificial turf is the "third" major transformation at Memorial Field. The field initially ran north and south parallel to what is now Hamilton Blvd., and was later repositioned to run in a east west line in the 1960s.

The field received new grandstand and a press box around 2010. Unknown to most is that the field was initially conceived as a sports field for baseball.

The field was named to honor our military veterans.

Memorial Field has been the site of state champion football teams and boys and girls soccer games that led to state berths and a state championship.

Heelan won its first game on the new turf.

The Briar Cliff University Chargers will use Memorial Field for its football games. Donors to Heelan and BCU conducted a private drive to raise the funds needed for the $800,000 investment.

Joe Malsam – 1989-1999

Fun Memory: “In the early 1990s we were able to use the Gilman Terrace locker room. It was warm and dry compared to the cold and wet of Memorial Field. My wife, Jenni, started to officiate volleyball and when she would leave town she would drop off our then three kids; John ‘95, Katie ‘97, and Joseph ‘99 at the locker room to be monitored by the managers. One night after practice as I entered the coach’s offices I heard, “Hi Dad!” Matt Petty, one of the managers, helped load the kids into the ball bag and suspended them from the hooks in the ceiling! A good laugh by all!”

George Schermerhorn, Denny Cron, Joe Malsam and John Tritz.

George Schermerhorn – 1984-88

Fun Memory: “Here’s the story. We’re playing East in the 1984 playoff game. Chad Bohan ‘85, our quarterback, reverses his field, a block is thrown and we score just before half. But there is a flag on the field. We’re called for clipping. Everyone knew it was a horrible call. Even the priests on the sidelines are booing the call. The priests were right, the fans were right. They march it off and we have one more play and its halftime. We’re running to the locker room and the head referee calls me over. ‘We don’t know if it was a good or bad call,’ he says. ‘But those guys on the sidelines, the priests, (including Fr. Victor Raemaker) can’t be there the second half and say one word. I said ‘hey look I might be the head football coach but there’s only one guy in charge of those guys and He’s upstairs. I’ll relay the message but I can’t guarantee anything.’ And the ref says “Any more out of those guys and it’s going to be a 15 more (penalty yards) so I go over to Fr. Raemaker. ‘Father,’ I says, ‘we all agree it was a horrible call but if you guys stay there the second half please don’t give me another 15 yards.’ We got beat and East went on to win the state championship. A crucial call decided that game. Those kids did everything possible to win and I’ll never forget the priests.”

George Schermerhorn with Phil Karpuk

Roger Jansen 2000-2014

Fun Memory: “George was the head coach and we’re playing Sioux Falls Lincoln in the early 80s. I think the game was close. We have the ball, but our offense is real close to our goal line. Well, the sprinklers go off! We stop the game and George runs out and stands on the sprinkler head, and Doug Moody or Joe Malsam had to crawl down into some kind of crawl space to turn off the sprinkler. That might have been the fastest I’ve ever seen George move.”

Phil Karpuk 1977-1983

Fun Memory: “Coach Triplet and I would play touch football two on two against the managers. I would get grass stains all over my coaching uniform. Now with artificial turf no one needs to worry about grass stains anymore.”

“When I run into former players, very seldom do we talk about wins and losses. We talk about stuff that happens in the locker rooms and on the practice field. It’s amazing what those guys remember and they can explain it to you like it happened yesterday. Those are the memories that no one can every take away from those guys and they can share their whole entire life. It’s a big part of the Heelan experience.”

Head Coach Jerry Steffen 2015

Fun Memory: “The 1993 Season we were heading into the championship game to go against Iowa City High and their speedster running back Tim Dwight. To simulate the speed that he had, I suited up for the scout team as a running back, which only motivated the defense even more to lay some hits on me!”

Taking a Trip Down Memory Lane at Memorial Field

High school football games reign among the golden memories of high school with students, parents, athletes and fans. Plays are called. Spirits soar. Hearts are broken. History is made. And that's just in the stands!

Athletes on the field and the sidelines share memories of team spirit, backbreaking practices, close games, great victories and disappointing defeats. (Many share special memories of grade school games, too.) It wouldn't have happened without Heelan's dedicated head coaches and assistant coaches for teams from freshmen thru varsity.

Memory of My Special Honor Bestowed by Heelan Coaches

"I was the football equipment manager for the Crusader for four years," says Clay. "Being part of that team gave me lots of fun memories. In one we were all standing on the sidelines during a game and I suddenly saw everybody backing up. I wasn't fast enough and got a helmet right in the stomach. I flew back and the next think I knew all the cheerleaders were looking down on me. I was given the 'butt kiss award' a lid from a locker room toilet. It made me feel pretty good.Fr Al McCoy got it the second half."

.....Fr Al McCoy got it the second half."

Don Wengert '88, a former Major League Baseball Player, talks baseball with Principal Chris Bork before the annual Heelan senior breakfast.

Former MLB player grateful for faith

By Joanne Fox, Reprinted Courtesy of The Globe

Former Major League Baseball pitcher Don Wengert laughed out loud last May when asked how much time he spent in Room 318 at Bishop Heelan High School.

"Not much, not very much," he said. "But I did, and I did get it out of my system ... eventually," the 1988 graduate admitted.

Wengert, who resides in Des Moines, was invited to deliver an alumni message to graduating seniors at the annual Senior Breakfast in May.

"As the youngest in a family of 10, all Heelan graduates, Don played quarterback in football and pitcher in baseball at Heelan and went on to play in the majors for 11 years," said Tom Betz, director of advancement. "It seemed a natural to invite Don to speak to seniors."

"This school has made an imprint on my life and helped me out through my career and my life," Wengert told the seniors. "You may not recognize its importance right now, but you will. You've made a choice to attend a Catholic school and it will be a great choice, you will find out."

Humility was a virtue Wengert learned both at Heelan and at home.

"When I learned my senior year that I was drafted by the Cincinnati Reds, my dad (the late William Wengert) said, 'Your mother and I discussed this and no one outside of this house will know about this.' He didn't want me to brag about it, or get cocky, or think I was better than anyone else or have some type of a target on my back that opposing teams would notice."

Instead of accepting that draft offer, Wengert continued his baseball career at Iowa State University where he was a four-year starter and letter winner.

Wengert said his decision to follow his mother's advice and "buckle down" to graduate from college in 1992 impacted his future, allowing him to be successful for the past 14 years as a sales representative for Pfizer Pharmaceuticals in Des Moines.

"The significance of having my degree was that I was able to focus 100 percent on baseball and make the transition easier into the workforce when I retired from baseball," he said.

Wengert was drafted in the fourth round of the 1992 major league baseball draft by the Oakland Athletics. He appeared in 160 games during his pro career from 1995 to 2001, for the A's, San Diego Padres, Chicago Cubs, Kansas City Royals, Atlanta Braves and Pittsburgh Pirates. He retired from baseball in 2003.

Wengert credited his mother, Sheila, who still resides in Sioux City, with having the greatest influence on his faith.

"I can't tell you how many times Mom would say, 'Offer it up for the honor and glory of God,'" he said. "From being an altar boy at Immaculate Conception Church in Sioux City to praying the rosary on Sunday nights during Lent, my parents always talked about the importance of our faith."

"I'm very proud of him," said Sheila Wengert, who also attended the Senior Breakfast. "The school gave him dedication and discipline, but it's so clear to me how important it is to have your faith."

Wengert emphasized how his faith truly came to the forefront when his son, Robbie, spent two weeks hospitalized with an intracranial bleed in December.

"Before Robbie slipped into a coma, he asked, 'Dad, will you please pray with me?'" he said.

"All during Robbie's illness and recuperation, there was a tremendous outpouring of support," he said. "I am so thankful that Robbie knew to turn to God in a time of great need. My message to the seniors is they can always turn to God when they have their own difficulties in life."

Lexi Stolen '17 was a stand-out, three-sport athlete at Heelan.

Stolen is Female Athlete of the Year

No matter the sports, no matter the situation, Lexie Stolen '17 was always at her best in the biggest moments.

The talented, three-sport athlete at Bishop Heelan pushed herself and her teammates to be the best they could be whether it was on the basketball floor, the soccer field or the softball diamond.

Stolen led the Crusaders in scoring and rebounding for Coach Darron Koolstra in basketball, was the leading goal scorer for Coach Jared Bodammer in soccer and led Coach Stacia Barker's softball squad in several offensive categories.

The daughter of Tom and Tracy Stolen '86, honored as the Sioux City Journal's Metro Female Athlete of the Year, won All-Missouri River Conference all-conference honors as well as all-district honors in each sport and all-state honors in soccer and softball.

"She was a versatile player that could play multiple positions," said Koolstra. "She lead us in scoring, rebounding and assists, she led us in a lot of different categories, just has a lot to do with being an all-around athlete and playing multiple sports."

Stolen averaged 13.1 points and 6.3 rebounds and exploded for a career-high 34 points in an exciting contest against eventual Class 2A state champion Western Christian in a late January home game at "The Pit."

"That was probably one of the best performances in 'The Pit' that anybody has ever had," said Koolstra. "She got us into that game and made it a competitive game against a state championship team."

Stolen, despite not participating in soccer as a freshman, went on to record three straight double digit goal scoring seasons.

"As anyone that watched her play saw, her raw talent and the competitor within make her a very special student-athlete," said Bodammer. "She is focused on not only her goals but the team goals. She has that internal drive and she works really hard and pushes herself."

Stolen was at home on the softball diamond, the sport she will pursue in college at Morningside.

The shortstop eclipsed her own single-season school record for batting average as a senior, hitting .510, while also setting a new school mark in doubles (22). Her career totals of 54 doubles and a .412 average are also school records while she became just the third in school history to reach 200 career hits.

"Lexie has always been determined to play her best and be at her best all the time," said Barker. "From hook sliding around a defender or making playing shortstop look effortless, she knows the game so well and was just fun to coach. I really feel blessed to have someone like Lexie on the team as I began my coaching career."

Heelan Grads Say "I Do"

Our Married Grad Section

When we saw the wedding photo of Nick Berger '10 and Fayola Rose '10 walking in a Heelan hallway in wedding gown and tux for photos last summer, we were inspired to create this special feature of "Heelan Grads Marrying Heelan Grads."

Thank you Nick and Fay for choosing Heelan for a unique and memorable photo that we used on our cover and for answering a few questions here.

Our opinion of the list on the following pages? WOW!

We know some grads listed on these pages were truly high school sweethearts and even attended the same Catholic grade school. Others connected with each other years after Heelan and enjoyed their shared high school experience. Some grads are no longer married and others are sadly deceased. There are other couples we don't know about and admit there are likely errors in our records. We trust that readers will let us know! Hope you enjoy our feature.

Meet Nick and Fayola Berger

Nick and Fayola Berger, 2010 Heelan grads, were married June 4, 2016 and celebrated their first anniversary this year. Nick works at the Principal Financial Group with his dad and brothers, and Fay works as a surgical nurse at Dunes Surgical Hospital. Of extra interest: Nick's parents, Leo and Crystal

They all met at Heelan. Greg and Cris Berger, Greg and Alison Berger, Fayola and Nick Berger and Casey and Annie Berger.

(Cook) Berger graduated together in 1976 from Heelan and Nick's brother Greg Berger and his wife Allison (Young) were 2003 high school sweethearts at Heelan.

How did you first meet?

Nick: Fay and I first met our freshman year at Heelan as we each had Mr. Wright for homeroom. (Shout out to homeroom 102) She would tell you I was very shy and wanted nothing to do with her initially. Fay likes to tell a story about a school Mass our freshman year. We were sitting next to each other and joined hands for the Our Father and she claims my hand was shaking the whole time because I was nervous. She will tell you I had it out for her all along, but really it wasn't until the following year until I realized I kind of liked her. Luckily we had homeroom all four years together, so it gave me quite a few opportunities to try and impress her, and finally Junior year I was able to trick her into dating me and haven't let her go since.

What was your first "date?"

Nick: Our first date was at the Dunes Club for pasta night. Lucky for me, I didn't have to spend a dollar on our first date as she charged it to her parents account. I knew she was a keeper and still owe Fay's parents a "thank you" for that. The dinner couldn't have gone better and we have been dating/married ever since.

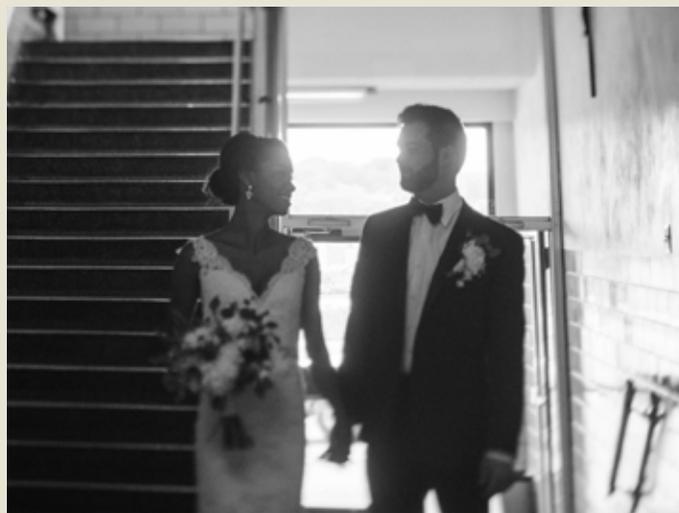

Think you share a special bond?

Fayola: We definitely feel a special bond since we attended high school together. We've been able to experience growth as individuals and as a couple through multiple phases of our lives, and our high school experience was an important part of that.

Nick: It is so fun to share memories together, we often times look back at how much we have changed as individuals and as a couple and just smile.

Have a favorite Heelan memory?

Fayola: My favorite Heelan memory with Nick would definitely be wearing his jersey to the football games and taking pictures together after. I remember I use to get so nervous asking Nick to wear his jersey!

Nick and Fayala (Rose) Berger met as freshman at Heelan in 2006 and came back to where it all began for this photo before their wedding.

Nick: My favorite memory was asking Fay to Homecoming senior year. I really enjoy fishing and did it quite a bit so Fay would join quite often. One evening we were out fishing and I had set her up with a bobber and a minnow, and she was catching a few. I told her to go grab the fish basket and as she did, I hooked a hockey puck that read "Homecoming?" to her rod. I casted out and started walking away. As she came back, she noticed her bobber was under and sprinted down to the rod yelling "I've got one!" She battled the hockey puck all the way to the dock, and to this day, it's her best catch yet!

Answers to Your Questions about Wills

Q: When do most people make wills and other planned gifts?

A: Most people write their first will in their 40s because they have children, an established home and other assets. They realize that without a will, they surrender control of their property and maybe even their children to the courts.

Q: What is the most common type of planned gift?

A: Most people leave a charitable gift through a will. In their wills donors to Bishop Heelan have designated a specific dollar amount, a percentage of their estate, left property or a percentage of a life insurance policy. They have left gifts to establish scholarships for tuition assistance at Heelan, supported the Heelan PRIDE campaign, supported the operating budget and more.

Q: How could a donor use an insurance policy to benefit Bishop Heelan Schools?

A: A donor may establish a life insurance policy for a specific amount and name Bishop Heelan Catholic Schools as both owner and beneficiary. The premiums are tax deductible. Another useful way to use life insurance is to endorse a paid-up life insurance policy to Bishop Heelan Catholic Schools. The donor could also designate a percentage of the policy to benefit Bishop Heelan.

Q: What is the benefit that a donor receives from making a planned gift to Heelan?

A: The satisfaction of knowing their support will enable Heelan to continue to provide the best possible Catholic education to students for generations to come.

Q: How does one become a member of the Heelan Legacy Society?

A: Membership is granted to anyone who completes the Legacy Society Application indicating the vehicle they used in making a planned gift. To fill out paperwork or receive more information on the Heelan Legacy Society, please contact Tom Betz at betzt@bishopheelan.org or 712-252-1350.

NIGHT AT THE DERBY

"There is a palpable feeling of history and tradition in Bishop Heelan schools. We love this spirit and embrace the goals that continue to be set for future growth and development" Auction co-chair Kathy Verschoor.

"The Heelan Auction is a great opportunity to show our support as well as celebrate the many friendships developed through school and parish activities." Auction co-chair Dr. Ryan Meis.

Mobile Bidding offers Exciting Change to Auction

Guests arrived in an array of hats and used their smart phones for mobile bidding at the Heelan Auction this past April – helping the Heelan School System raise some $335,000.

The "Night at the Derby" event, the largest fundraiser of the year for Bishop Heelan Catholic Schools, again drew over 500 guests to support the education fund of three elementary schools and Heelan High School.

Mobile bidding has been growing across the country because of its benefits for both guests and organizations, according to Janet Flanagan, director of special gifts and event organizer.

"With mobile bidding we displayed our gifts, and guests simply used an app to bid rather than writing on sheets and hovering over items," says Janet Flanagan, auction organizer. "Guests were able to spend more time visiting with each other and could bid all through the night."

Heelan showcased gifts and sponsors on a special website--bidpal.net/Heelan weeks before the Auction. Alumni and parents could also bid from far away and several did.

The top prizes were a 1981 Mercedes Benz hardtop convertible; a private jet service, Steamboat Springs ski trip, Fort Myers Beach vacation home, dinner with Irish priests at the home of Doug '84 and Amy (Verschoor) Skinner '84, an Arizona home for a week and summer parties hosted by Seth and Stephanie Schramm, Milt and Julia Avery with Dr. Julie (Roder) '00 and Chris '98 Lohr, and Shane and Mary (O'Brien) Hartnett '86 with Tony and Megan (Cosgrove) Grasso '86.

The next Heelan Auction will be April 14 2018. Check out bidpal.net/HeelanAuction.

Mark your calendars for April 14 for the 2018 Heelan Auction.

Carlita Tritz was honored for the Hall of Fame along with Tom Betz. (see page 11.)

Heelan students helped guests with iPads for check-in and bidding.

Fun hats and apparel reflected the night's theme.

Collins' 1974 team won city, conference, and was rated #1 in the Channel 9 All Northwest Iowa Team. They gathered at halftime during a boys basketball game with Carroll Kuemper.

Athletes Honor Dick Collins at Heelan Game

Former players from multiple states returned to the Heelan Pit Feb. 4 for a reunion with Dick Collins, a former Heelan coach and teacher and part of the Heelan family for 52 years.

In his 12 years at Heelan, from 1965 till 1977, Collins touched the lives of 3,000 students. He taught typing, shorthand, business math and physical education, coached sophomore and varsity basketball and was an assistant football coach and golf coach. He served as athletic director 1972 to 1977.

In 1974, Collins' Heelan basketball team, ranked #2 was 23-1, and was defeated in the first round at the state tournament by No. 1 ranked Waterloo East 57-55.

When Collins left Heelan to become an insurance agent in 1977, he had a record of 94-42 and three state tournament appearances, including one third place finish.

A former standout athlete at St. Edmond High School in Fort Dodge he also served in the 185th Air National Guard for 24 years.

Just as notable – as a team Dick and Pat Collins have supported Heelan and Catholic schools for over 52 years, serving as chairs for the the Heelan Auction, attending games and activities and serving on numerous committees.

Today grandchildren of three of four Collins – Jennifer, Ryan and Christie are attending schools in the Heelan system. Grandson, Andrew '13, the son of Jennifer (Collins) and Brad Clay, inspired the tribute when Collins suffered a heart attack from which he has now recovered.

"It was an incredible event!" says Jennifer Clay. "My parents were absolutely humbled and are so honored to be a part Heelan and all it stands for."

Dick Collins' 1972-73 team was rated #1 by Channel 9's KCAU Sportscaster Gene Sherman.

Clifford and Sue (Vondrak) Mitchell '68 "Gipp was in the Middle Class, a local band, and would play in area night spots. Most of the boys had already left for the service so us girls would be waiting for the few boys that were there to ask us to dance. I was sitting at a table with Steve Munson, another classmate of ours, when Gipp sat down with us. Both were going to be shipped out at the end of summer. Gipp asked me to meet him at a Briar Cliff dance, and that's where it all started. We are celebrating our 47th Wedding Anniversary this year."

Daniel Bousquet '67 was reelected and is serving for a third four-year term to the City Council of South Sioux City NE.
